CASE STUDY # 2

1. Would a society based on free love tend to be long-lasting? What social forces would make it stay together or fall apart?

A society based on free love tend to be long-lasting in some of the culture where free love is normal and they also called it “live in relationship” (such an example of these society is America society) because its common in whole society if we goes towards an opposite side a under develop society and they see it not like good and even don't like these people and see them not good people because of some religion propose. So these relationships in Muslim society are long lasting even society paly role in fall apart of them.

2. Was the Oneida Community a family? Why or why not?

The Oneida Community was not a family even a Perfectionist communal society and even show to live like a family by sharing they resource and property and they believed in free love trying to apply it in the whole society.
