Q1: Which research methodologies and theories would be most helpful if you wanted to study the role of gender and race in homelessness? Why?

A1: If you wanted to study the role of gender and race in homelessness the way most common way/most of the people choose is to do some survey with the sample of the people which are represent the population and the second think is to observations of the behavior of the homelessness people. Through the way of collecting data (survey) you can learn the role of gender and through deep observations you will able to figure it out the percentage (rate of homelessness) because in this way you can support micro level theory the advantage of this method of research you can specific individual facing the discrimination according to subject (male/Female) race and gender. The comma type behavior in the homeless people are aggressive, unable to communicate with people and not to trust people. These people have very serious mental condition through to end up there life. At end you learn many theory and methodologies about role of gender and race in homelessness
